Can wearing of earrings or piercings be harmful?

People often ask me this question about wearing of earrings.

Do earrings have any action on the organism?

Before giving an answer to this question, I would like to give to stories as an example.

The first incident took place in Brazil some years ago. A colleague practising homeopathy, became earrings as a present for her 60th birthday offered by her granddaughter. Up to this moment she never had earrings. Some time after she began to wear the earrings, she developed a psychotic delirium crisis. It was the first time in her life. Yet, we know that this kind of crisis is never developed after the age of 40. Somebody in her surrounding noticed the link between the use of the earrings and the emergence of the crisis and it was decided to take the earrings off. After that this women had never a crisis of this kind again.

The second story was told in the newspapers. A famous in the soccer league promising player, was suffering during one year from a knee pain, without any obvious reason. So, he was obliged to be put aside from the play until the moment, when a medical doctor suggested to him to take off his earring. Immediately after the withdrawal of the earring the pain disappeared.

Personally, I am not against the wearing of the earrings, if there is any metal present in the mouth. An earring alone, can to my opinion not be a source of a pathology. The problem can arise, when an electricity currant is created between the earring and the tooth crown or an amalgam filling. Moreover, I could notice that one of my patients suffering from a trigeminal neuralgia presented a difference of electrical potential of 250 millivolt between an earring and an amalgam filling. It is obvious that this battery effect created disturbance in the organism.

A micro voltmeter can be used in order to measure the intra-buccal electro-galvanism.
Regarding the different kinds of piercing in the tongue, lip, nose, etc. area, the problem remains the same. One shall be sure that no electro-galvanism is created.

What about the earring? Earrings can be used under condition that there is no other metal in the mouth area or any piercing in the face area.

Moreover, I advise to wear several earrings on the same ear at the same time. Regarding the position of the hole pierced for the earring, one shall choose the eye point situated in the centre of the lobule. This point was used by pirates in order to increase the vision acuity. By this means they were able to see earlier their enemy and had a better chance to win the battle.
